Adjectives with 'To Be'

GoTeach Materials | goteach.io

We use the verb 'to be' (am, is, are) to link a subject to an adjective that describes it.

- Spider-Man is strong.
- They are very loyal.
- I am intelligent.

READING PASSAGE

---

Everyone has a favorite hero from the movies. For many, Harry Potter is the best because he is very brave when fighting dark magic. He is also a loyal friend to Ron and Hermione. Another popular hero is Spider-Man. Peter Parker is intelligent and loves science, but as Spider-Man, he is very strong and can climb walls. He is not very tall, but he is fast. Some people prefer James Bond. Bond is a mysterious secret agent who travels to many countries. He is very adventurous and always has a plan. Finally, a hero must be kind to others. Whether they have superpowers or just a big heart, these characters inspire us. We like them because they help people and do the right thing even when it is difficult. A hero does not always need a cape; sometimes they just need to be helpful and honest in their daily lives.
